Over a Barrel:

High Oil Prices and Critical Infrastructure Don't Mix.

"The high price of oil is bringing infrastructure projects to a standstill.

How can the public and private sectors work together to deal with the impacts of a volatile oil market on critical infrastructure projects?"

Join us on August 12th for a series of panel discussions on the effects of high oil prices on critical infrastructure projects.

Meet with State Legislators, County Supervisors, and City Council Members as well as public policy professionals, industry representatives and national experts to discuss the growing infrastructure crisis.
